High-Impact Discovery – “Off-the-Shelf” Biological Parts –

Synberc (based at U.C.-Berkeley) – Researchers are addressing the need for highly reproducible control elements in synthetic biology by developing “biological circuit” components, an Inventory of Composable Elements, and a “Web of Registries” to make parts and tools readily available to designers.